

7th Annual Jazz Improvisation Camp

The Carly Stowell Foundation is hosting a week long jazz improvisation camp at Kentlake High School from August 7th through 11th from 9a.m.-2p.m. daily. Each day will include 3 ½ hours of instruction from our faculty of jazz artists, as well as an hour of supervised activity and ½ hour for lunch, which is provided.. The cost of the camp is $175, which is by far the least expensive jazz camp anywhere in the Northwest.

This summer will be the 7th year of our camp, with several returning students from year to year. We attribute that to our outstanding teaching staff, which this year will feature Jonathan Urmenita and Doug Ostgard. The week will culminate with a Saturday afternoon concert at Kent Station featuring the students, along with the jazz faculty. Registration forms are available from your school music teachers, and on our website (carlystowellfoundation.org)

Students with financial hardship issues may apply for financial assistance through our website as well. Don't let this great opportunity pass your students by. Enjoy your summer, and feel free to drop in and check out the camp in August.
